

CDPC Seminar Series

Sharon Jackson
Trinity College Dublin

HIV and Gender in East Africa

3PM, Tuesday April 7
Ehrlich Seminar Room
1st Floor Bioscience Building
National University of Ireland Maynooth

Sharon Jackson is a Research Associate at the Institute for International Integration Studies, Trinity College Dublin, and serves on the interim steering committee of the Trinity International Development Initiative – TIDI (www.tcd.ie/tidi). Her research interests include international development, particularly HIV and AIDS in eastern and southern Africa; gender-based violence; psychosocial and gender aspects of HIV and AIDS; social psychology; and global health. She has worked as an International Researcher with the Yale Center for Interdisciplinary Research on AIDS (CIRA), as a Research Associate at The Consultation Center, Yale University, and as HIV/AIDS Coordinator for Realizing Rights: the Ethical Globalization Initiative, based in New York and Dublin. She has organised several international conferences on global development and has conducted research in Africa and the U.S