Geoff Loane

(International Committee of the Red Cross)

Humanitarianism Today

Geoff Loane is Head of Mission for the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) in London. Prior to this posting, he was Head of the ICRC Regional Delegation for the United States and Canada for five years. In this capacity, he oversaw ICRC visits to the detention facility in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, and reported on the treatment of CIA prisoners in Guantanamo Bay and other detention centres around the world. Mr. Loane has also worked in the Balkans and the Middle East, and spent more than a decade in the Horn of Africa during major conflicts there including those in Ethiopia, Sudan, Somalia, and Rwanda. He has served as the Head of the Emergency Unit at ICRC headquarters in Geneva. Mr. Loane is a graduate of the University of Dublin, Trinity College.
